

MASTER OF DIVINITY MODULAR AND DISTANCE EDUCATION PROGRAM

The Master of Divinity (M.Div.) is the basic professional degree for ministry. With a balanced integration of three components—Biblical Literature, Theological/Historical Studies, and the Practices of Ministry—the M.Div. prepares students for effective careers as pastors, evangelists, chaplains, and a broad variety of other ministries. Students are trained to be Spirit-led, biblically based, historically informed, socially and ethically accountable, theologically responsible, and skillfully enabled ministers of Jesus Christ. The Master of Divinity is the prerequisite degree for admission into the Doctor of Ministry program and military chaplaincy.

One of the strengths of the Master of Divinity program is the flexibility offered by its nine credit hours of electives. Students may use these credit hours to pursue a specific area of ministry study, such as counseling or missions. Because ORU also has graduate schools in Education and Business, M.Div. students may also choose to use a limited number of these elective hours for cross-disciplinary training.

THE OBJECTIVES OF THE MASTER OF DIVINITY ARE TO:

- Prepare candidates with a foundational knowledge of the content of Scripture within its cultural and historical context with application to selected contemporary situations
- Prepare students to interpret the biblical writings in the Greek and/or Hebrew languages, using critical exegetical tools, and writing a hermeneutical and exegetical paper
- Provide a basic knowledge of the key movements and figures together with their significance in the history of Christianity
- Provide a basic knowledge of the contents and methods of Christian theology
- Enable students to develop skills and practical ministry strategies
- Equip candidates with the biblical, theological, and ethical understanding necessary to analyze and discuss contemporary social issues affecting the Church and society
- Enable students to develop and articulate a theology and theory of ministry that is relevant to their backgrounds and callings
- Provide opportunities to develop necessary skills for ministry within a variety of traditions, ministry settings, and cross-cultural contexts
- Promote a biblical/theological understanding of the person, work, and ministry of the Holy Spirit
- Enable students to articulate clearly their ministry/professional calling

MODULAR AND DISTANCE EDUCATION DELIVERY SYSTEMS

In today's fast-paced society, it can be difficult to earn a residential degree at the graduate level. The Graduate School of Theology and Ministry's fully accredited Modular/Distance Education Program offers a combination of fully online courses and blended courses that allow students to attend class on campus for all or half of a 5-day intensive week, while completing the rest of the course work online. It is a unique schedule, tailor-made for students seeking spiritual, academic, and professional training, while maintaining their current jobs and homes.

Some of the reasons to choose the Graduate School of Theology and Ministry's Modular and Distance Education Program are:

- The program offers a quality professional education with a Holy-Spirit-empowered dimension
- Students, by selecting courses that fit their schedules, determine how long it takes to complete the degree
- The same ATS-accredited material given in a residential semester is offered in online and blended course delivery systems
- One half of the degree is available online and the remainder of the course work can be done with as few as 7 visits to campus
- Classes take place in cutting edge facilities with state of the art technologies designed for adult education
- Curriculum prepares ministers and leaders for the 21st century
- Distance library resources are available
- Professors who are experienced in their respective fields give valuable instruction and impart their spirit of excellence
- Students build relationships with professors and one another in a supportive, academic environment
